U.S. WARSHIP HUGHES HITS AT PRESIDENT ON LUSITANIA

Have Prevented Outrage

Louisville, Oct. 12 .- Warnings, such as were issued before the Lusitania was sunk, would have been answered off Ambrose Lightship at 8 o'clock last by Hughes as President, he declared tonight by the United States destroyer day, in terms so unmistakable that the ship would not have been torpedoed. The government issuing such warnings, he said, would have been given to understand that friendly relations could not continue if the threat was carried

The vaunted campaign question was fired at Mr. Hughes in the midst of one of the most riotous and disorderly meetings that any candidate for President ever faced. Phoenix Hill Park Hall was crammed. Mr. Hughes had given a Democratic heckler a forthright answer to a question concerning his veto of the two-cent railroad fare bill in New York.

Strike Zone Saloons Raided and Their Proprietors Taken Prisoners as Citizens Appeal for Protection

Twice within six hours yesterday seventy-five special policemen, detectives and firemen, armed with shotguns, clubs and revolvers, descended on the Constable Hook district of Bayonne, N. J., and battled with the Standard Oil strikers.

During the first raid, in the afternoon, one man was killed and eight persons were shot, two so seriously they are expected to die. As a result of the second battle, last night, one striker is dying in the Bayonne City Hospital, and another, carried away by his comrades, is believed to have been fatally wounded.

Citizens See Police March

The reign of terror that has held Bayonne in its grip for two days and nights reached its crest late yesterday afternoon, when 3,000 of the city's residents, surrounding Police Headquarters, in Twenty-sixth Street, saw nearly one hundred armed men, most of them in uniform, march forth, the leaders with rifles and repeating shotguns on their shoulders, the others armed with clubs and heavy revolvers.

Word had spread to the strike district that the little army of police was coming to clean up the Hook. Lurking in doorways and alleys, strikers awaited their advance, with rifles and revolvers, ready to drop the first bluecoat they saw. When the squad went forward there followed a combat that turned the sometime peaceful streets of Bayonne into a battlefield and made the air resound for two hours with the recurrent cracking of rifle, shotgun and revolver shots.
